Venezuela NOTAMs, where have you gone?

Declan Selleck
8 February, 2017

Last year, Venezuela partly stopped sending out Metars.

This year, they've gone one better, and stopped sending out NOTAMs entirely.

Anything with an SV in front of it shouldn't be high on your tech stop list at the moment, but for those that do need to operate to an airport in the country, or carry it as an alternate, this is definitely a problem.

How are you handling the outage? Comment below.